

Call to host the third ENRIO Congress (ENRIO2025)

ENRIO invites interested organisations to submit proposals to host the next ENRIO Congress.

ENRIO Congresses have as their goal to foster discussion of research integrity practice and the development of responsible research in Europe. These outcome-oriented events draw on the expertise and interests of the participants. It is organized by members of ENRIO and attended by research integrity officers, research directors, representatives of funding organisations, members of ethics committees, other research integrity and research ethics experts, and researchers from Europe and all over the world who are interested in developing responsible conduct of research.

Past congresses have been hosted by Research Integrity Offices of Finland (online, 2021) and France (Paris, 2023), in collaboration with universities (Aalto University, Sorbonne University).

Hosting organizations are responsible for local arrangements (conference site, conference website and registration, etc.) and for the joint planning of the conference programme. A programme committee includes members of the hosting organizations and members of ENRIO. This committee formulates the programme, invites speakers and contributes to planning the conference.

The next event is taking place during the period June-October 2025. The two day Congress is ideally held in a hybrid form, but may also be in-person only, or even online only.

More detailed information can be found on ENRIO's website: <http://www.enrio.eu/congress2023/>
